

If we let one company control the TV stations, they will each lose their individuality much like the radio stations have. How are we to know if what we are watching is a result of what they really want to be broadcasting or if they are being controlled into showing whatever they are told to show?